Before you file

- The passport should be valid for the period of the permit applied for. Any document not in English or French is accompanied by a certified or sworn translation by a competent authority.
- Medical certificate: tests no older than six months at submission. HIV, Hepatitis B surface antigen and the chest X-ray (signed by a radiologist) are done in Mauritius at a clinic registered with the Ministry of Health; the remaining tests may be done abroad. A doctor in Mauritius issues the certificate after examination. Children under 12 need a certificate of clinical examination only.
- Sequence: the application fee is paid at submission. Approval in principle follows. The medical examination is then completed in Mauritius, the permit fee is paid, and the applicant attends the EDB in person with the originals for the permit to be issued.
- Where the investor is a company, an application is made for each shareholder who is also a director, and the criteria are applied to each applicant.
- Founders of an innovative start-up apply under the Investor category without a minimum investment. That file is different: see the Innovator Occupation Permit checklist.

We prepare the file, and stay with it after issuance.

Send us the documents you already have and we will tell you what is missing, what needs certifying or translating, and in what order the steps should run. Nothing is filed until the file is complete.

- The permit is tied to the employer. A move to another company needs a fresh application by the new employer. If employment ends, the employer notifies the EDB, and a self-undertaking must reach the EDB and the PIO within two weeks to keep a six-month window to secure a new permit. We handle this on the holder's behalf.

Before you file

- The acquisition follows a defined sequence: reservation, EDB authorisation, the notarial deed, and registration with payment of the registration duty. The residence permit is applied for once the deed is transcribed.
- The developer or scheme company lodges the application for authorisation to acquire and issues its own checklist for it, including its own verification of source of wealth. Stage one lists what a buyer is usually asked for; the developer's list prevails.
- Purchases below USD 375,000 in an approved scheme are permitted but do not carry a residence permit. The permit lapses on sale unless the holder has qualified under another route by then.
- Documents not in English or French are accompanied by a certified translation. Copies of civil status documents may be certified by a diplomatic mission, an attorney or a notary.
- We act for the buyer throughout, alongside the notary, and prepare the residence permit file in parallel with the acquisition so that it is lodged as soon as the deed is transcribed.

We prepare the file, and stay with it after issuance.

Before you file

- Eligibility is not the same as approval. The application is assessed on its merits, and completing the investment does not convert the visa into permanent residence automatically.
- The EDB follows up on the investment during the first twelve months. Failing to meet the undertaking may lead to the cancellation, revocation or non-renewal of the visa.
- Source of funds is where a file is tested. We prepare it to the standard the authorities apply, drawing on the group's compliance practice, and confirm the requirements with the EDB before filing.

We prepare the file, and stay with it after issuance.

Send us the documents you already have and we will tell you what is missing, what needs certifying or translating, and in what order the steps should run. Nothing is filed until the file is complete.

- The visa can be converted from within Mauritius to an Investor, Self-Employed or Retired Non-Citizen permit without leaving the country. We plan the sequence at the outset so the time on the Premium Visa is not wasted.

We prepare the file, and stay with it after issuance.

Before you file

- Applications are made to the Residence Permit Section, Prime Minister's Office (Defence and Home Affairs Division), 4th Floor, New Government Centre, Port Louis. Complete applications are, in principle, determined within three months.
- The thresholds are measured over five consecutive years, not at a single point, and the application window closes six months after the criteria are met. Turnover, salary and business income are taken from the MRA's records, so the annual declarations under the original permit are what count.
- A permanent resident under the Investor, Professional or Self-Employed category may later have the permit reissued under the Retired Non-Citizen category for the remaining period, on showing disposable annual income of USD 40,000.

We prepare the file, and stay with it after issuance.

Send us the documents you already have and we will tell you what is missing, what needs certifying or translating, and in what order the steps should run. Nothing is filed until the file is complete.
